GUERRILLA EMMERSON.

Capt. S. P. Emerson, formerly of Dal., lauded in Denver, Col., on Tuesday last, Capt. Emerson was one of the most noted characters produced on the southern side by the war between the states. A native of Kentucky, he had strong southern inclinations, and when the war came on he raised and commanded an "irregular" Confederate force commonly known as guerrillas.

Many of the exploits of Emerson's command were as daring and sensational as those of Quantrell, Morgan or Mosby. In one of his raids he was captured and imprisoned in Kentucky, but made a bold escape by cutting through the prison roof and escaping on a horse and a soldier. Capt. Emerson lived for many years on his Dallas county farm, near Richardson. He was an old bachelor and inclined to reticence on the subject of the Civil War, particularly in regard to his own part in it. He never got over grief for the "Lost Cause." Before going to Denver, when his health failed him, he called on Mrs. Kate Cabell Currie, of Dallas, former national president of the Daughters of the Confederacy, and now at the head of the local chapter of the order. He said to her:

"When the Southern Confederacy perished I lost what stood to me in my affections the same as to a wife, children and family ties to other men. When I am dead, which will be soon, I look that you, that I am buried among my own kind of people. I desire that a plain suit of Confederate gray be my burial garments. I want none but former Confederate soldiers to act as pallbearers and to place me in the grave. I desire the Confederate flag to be spread upon my coffin. I desire that a plain monument surmounted by a life-size Confederate soldier, be erected over the center of my grave, and that on the monument shall be carved this epitaph only: 'Here lies a man who believed in the traditions and teachings of the old South.' In my will I shall make provision for my burial expenses."

Mrs. Currie promised Capt. Emerson that she would do as he had requested. When notified last Tuesday of his death she made the arrangements for his funeral. The body was met at the railway station on its arrival from Denver by a squad of former Confederate soldiers, who bore it to the residence of Judge E. S. Lauderdale, from whence the funeral took place. The grave was in the middle of the burial lot owned by the Daughters of the Confederacy, Camp Sterling Price, United Confederate Veterans, attended in a body, and their old battle-scarred Confederate flag was spread over the coffin. —[St. Louis Republic.]

A MAHARAJAH AND HIS IRISH WIFE.
The death of the Maharajah of Patiala, at Simla, November 8, removes one of the best and most interesting products of Anglo-Indian rule. He was the first reigning prince to blend the elements of the English gentleman and the Indian potentate. Educated at Eton and Sandhurst, he returned to India and put in force in his kingdom the reforms which he had carefully absorbed in England, endowing free hospitals for women, establishing orphanages, drilling troops, sending them to help a British expedition and leading them personally.

It was one of his keenest disappointments not to be allowed to serve in South Africa. But he was not only a just and enlightened ruler. He became the best polo player in India, was a fearless rider, a deadly shot, and was one of the finest amateur billiardists of the day. The deceased was a close friend of Lord William Somerset, Lord Roberts and other well-known people.

He was passionately fond of horses, and imported a splendid stud and an Irish expert named Bryan to be master of the horse at Patiala. With Bryan went his daughter, and the Prince fell desperately in love with her, proposed and was accepted. The Sikhs murmured and threatened revolt, and the imperial government, dreading trouble, endeavored to break off the match. But both Great Britain and his own subjects were outraged and eventually the match was called off.

His reign was short. Accompanying his husband during a campaign in the icy Himalayas, she died of pneumonia. At the head of his silent army the Prince brought back the body of his wife, which was cremated with all the weird Sikh rites which this week were accorded to himself.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others. Why Not You?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well. —ADOLPH L. MILLETT, Manchester, N. H. For sale by all druggists.

We give no reward. An offer of this kind is the means of deception. Test the curative powers of Ely's Cream Balm for the cure of Catarrh, Hay Fever, and cold in the Head and you are sure to continue the treatment. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying, does not produce sneezing, soothes and heals the membrane. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

There is no pleasure in life if you dread going to the toilet to eat, and rest at night on account of indigestion. Henry Williams, of Boonville, Ind., says he suffered that way for years, till he commenced the use of Ely's Cream Balm, and said, "Now I can eat anything I like and all I want and sleep soundly every night." Ely's Cream Balm will digest what you eat.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Chamberlain's Candy Cathartic, 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

The Great Difference

BETWEEN WEDDING GIFTS AND EUCRE PRIZES bought from our stock and those to be had of other dealers is the exclusiveness of the designs we can furnish. It is not our aim to supply you with some article to be had in any department store in the land, but to give you value received for your money in some article that will not only be a trifle but DIFFERENT from the hosts of others seen elsewhere. We cannot go into specifications of the articles we can show, but ask that you do us the favor to call and examine our new goods. We can safely assure you that we have never been so fortunate in the selection of our stock of High-Art China, Glass, Biscuits, Novelties, etc., at this season. It is a pleasure to show you the very latest productions of the FOREIGN and DOMESTIC MARKETS, and nearly every line is HANDLED EXCLUSIVELY here by us. Store open nights until Christmas.
